

CHARLES AND JANE McGHIE
BUEHLER

Charles Buehler, son of Ulrich Buehler and Anna Burgdorffer Buehler.

Born June 21, 1864, Bern, Switzerland.

Married Jane (Jean) McGhie December 22, 1891.

Died February 2, 1949.

Mr. Buehler lived for years in Midway. He was interested in the mines in the mountains west of Midway and was considered a "top" man in the mining business. He and his family left Midway in April 1904, to go to Canada to farm. They settled in Raymond, Alberta, and remained there until 1931, when they returned to Utah and made a home in Pleasant Grove.

Mr. and Mrs. Buehler were good people!

When Mrs. Buehler died in 1956 her newspaper obituary notice read as follows:

Pleasant Grove—Mrs. Jane McGhie Buehler 86, died Monday at 2:30 p.m. of causes incident to age. Born in Cottonwood March 7, 1870, to William and Mary McBlaine McGhie. Married to Charles Buehler in Cottonwood December 23, 1891; later solemnized in Salt Lake LDS Temple. He died February 2, 1949. Farmed at Raymond, Canada. Moved to Pleasant Grove in 1931. Mother of 13 children, nine surviving: Mrs. Jennie Bone, Mrs. Ethel Miller, Magrath, Canada; Clarence, Seattle; Arld, Vancouver, B.C.; Clesson, Venezuela; Mrs. Emily Casillas, San Francisco; Mrs. Nellie Baker, Richmond, California; Mrs. Bertie Struve, Portland; Mrs. Edra Bea Howell, Pleasant Grove; 27 grandchildren, 19 great-grandchildren. Funeral Thursday 1 p.m. in Fifth LDS Ward Chapel. Friends call at Olpin Sundberg Mortuary, Pleasant Grove, Wednesday 7-9 p.m., family home 135 East 1st South after Thursday noon. Burial Murray City Cemetery. Died December 3, 1956, Pleasant Grove.

WILLIAM AND AGNES ROBERTSON McGHIE

Before William McGhie came to Utah from Ayrshire, Scotland, in the year 1863, with Agnes Robertson Ritchie, his mother-in-law and John Ritchie, his brother-in-law, he was married to Agnes Ritchie, James Ritchie's father's sister. They had two children who died very young. The mother died also during a severe epidemic.

Shortly after they arrived here William McGhie married his mother-in-law, Agnes Robertson Ritchie. James Ritchie of Charleston, who wrote what he knew of the McGhie family, could find no birth dates or much about the McGhie family.

However in the fall of 1896, when Buysville was separated from Charleston, William McGhie was appointed the presiding Elder by Bishop Nymphus C. Murdock of Charleston. He was a second lieutenant in Ira N. Jacob's Infantry company in the Indian Wars.

In 1879 Agnes McGee was counselor to the president of the Charleston Relief Society and by December 13, 1894, before Buysville Branch was organized, Agnes McGhie was president of the Relief Society, with Sarah A. Nelson as first counselor and Anna C. Wahlquist as second counselor.

The McGhie's lived on a small farm west of the present Wasatch company gravel pit.

Marie Anderson often told of walking from her home to the McGhie home to attend Primary. One time she remembered vividly was one fall, when Sister McGhie gave her a nice ripe tomato to eat on her way home. She said she tasted it, but one bite was enough, so she offered it to her dog, but he wouldn't have any of it either. 878

BEAUTIFUL UPON THE MOUNTAINS

Agnes McGhie did much nursing among the sick, older folks report.

They were both very faithful Church workers.

Both died at Daniel and are buried on James Ritchie's father's lot in Charleston.

WILLIAM AND AGNES ROBERTSON McGHIE

Before William McGhie came to Utah from Ayrshire, Scotland, in the year 1863, with Agnes Robertson Ritchie, his mother-in-law and John Ritchie, his brother-in-law, he was married to Agnes Ritchie, James Ritchie's father's sister. They had two children who died very young. The mother died also during a severe epidemic.

Shortly after they arrived here William McGhie married his mother-in-law, Agnes Robertson Ritchie. James Ritchie of Charleston, who wrote what he knew of the McGhie family, could find no birth dates or much about the McGhie family.

However in the fall of 1896, when Buysville was separated from Charleston, William McGhie was appointed the presiding Elder by Bishop Nymphus C. Murdock of Charleston. He was a second lieutenant in Ira N. Jacob's Infantry company in the Indian Wars.

In 1879 Agnes McGee was counselor to the president of the Charleston Relief Society and by December 13, 1894, before Buysville Branch was organized, Agnes McGhie was president of the Relief Society, with Sarah A. Nelson as first counselor and Anna C. Wahlquist as second counselor.

The McGhie's lived on a small farm west of the present Wasatch company gravel pit.

Marie Anderson often told of walking from her home to the McGhie home to attend Primary. One time she remembered vividly was one fall, when Sister McGhie gave her a nice ripe tomato to eat on her way home. She said she tasted it, but one bite was enough, so she offered it to her dog, but he wouldn't have any of it either. 878

BEAUTIFUL UPON THE MOUNTAINS

Agnes McGhie did much nursing among the sick, older folks report.

They were both very faithful Church workers.

Both died at Daniel and are buried on James Ritchie's father's lot in Charleston.

878

WILLIAM AND AGNES ROBERTSON McGHIE

Before William McGhie came to Utah from Ayrshire, Scotland, in the year 1863, with Agnes Robertson Ritchie, his mother-in-law and John Ritchie, his brother-in-law, he was married to Agnes Ritchie, James Ritchie's father's sister. They had two children who died very young. The mother died also during a severe epidemic.

Shortly after they arrived here William McGhie married his mother-in-law, Agnes Robertson Ritchie. James Ritchie of Charleston, who wrote what he knew of the McGhie family, could find no birth dates or much about the McGhie family.

However in the fall of 1896, when Buysville was separated from Charleston, William McGhie was appointed the presiding Elder by Bishop Nymphus C. Murdock of Charleston. He was a second lieutenant in Ira N. Jacob's Infantry company in the Indian Wars.

In 1879 Agnes McGee was counselor to the president of the Charleston Relief Society and by December 13, 1894, before Buysville Branch was organized, Agnes McGhie was president of the Relief Society, with Sarah A. Nelson as first counselor and Anna C. Wahlquist as second counselor.

The McGhie's lived on a small farm west of the present Wasatch company gravel pit.

Marie Anderson often told of walking from her home to the McGhie home to attend Primary. One time she remembered vividly was one fall, when Sister McGhie gave her a nice ripe tomato to eat on her way home. She said she tasted it, but one bite was enough, so she offered it to her dog, but he wouldn't have any of it either. 878

BEAUTIFUL UPON THE MOUNTAINS

Agnes McGhie did much nursing among the sick, older folks report.

They were both very faithful Church workers.

Both died at Daniel and are buried on James Ritchie's father's lot in Charleston.

878